The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

SEC Under Joe Kennedy Proving Itself Best of New Deal Commissions

WASHINGTON — Now that the "financial log jam" is supposed to be broken and money once again is loosening up in the investor's pocket, it is a good thing to keep an eye on the Securities and Exchange Commission.

That Commission, established after one of the hardest battles ever witnessed between Wall Street and Washington, now has been functioning about nine months.

During that time it has come to be one of the most sincere, and on the whole, effective of New Deal commissions. This is due chiefly to the fact that the President started the SEC off with a genuinely high-grade group of Commissioners.

But perhaps because the quality of its personnel is so far above par, more is expected from the SEC than from the faltering steps of many other New Deal agencies.

At any rate, certain weaknesses have developed in the administration of the Securities and Stock Exchange Acts—though principally the fault of the Acts themselves—on which the investing public should keep a weather eye.

Legal Truth

Chief among these is the fact that the law merely requires a company registering a stock or bond issue to tell the truth. The company may be as crooked as a dog's hind leg, but if it states the truth in the prospectus issued to the public there is no way the SEC can stop the sale of the security.

This is the greatest illusion which the investing public cherishes about the SEC. The unsuspecting man-in-the-street with a few spare dollars to salt away may have the idea that because the Gold Nugget Get Rich Company has been O. K.'d by the SEC, it is as sound as the Rock of Gibraltar, whereas the company may state quite frankly that its assets are purely ethereal and its profits as illusive as a firefly.

One of the severest tongue-lashing ever given by the volatile Ferd Pecora, former SEC Commissioner, was administered to a woman broker who had lost money on United States Smelting, a fluctuating stock, and then came to Washington to ask the Commission to collect.

Lenient

The SEC, however, has not leaned backward to aid the unwary investor in avoiding some of these pitfalls. In fact its ruling on the bond flotation of the Northern States Power Company has let it in for considerable criticism.

In this, the company purported to show an "earned surplus" of slightly over $4,000,000, although Arthur Anderson, the accountant, refused to certify this, and indicated that instead, by one form of bookkeeping the company had a deficit of $1,100,000. Thus, according to the accountant, the company's balance was overwritten by a total of over $5,100,000.

By a 3 to 2 vote, however, the SEC let the Northern States Power Company get away with presenting this balance sheet in its prospectus. It contented itself with the fact that the item was explained by the accountant in the explanatory pages which followed, failing to take into consideration that the average investor never examines the reams of explanatory material accompanying a prospectus, and does well if he glances through the prospectus itself.

This tremendous accumulation of evidence in the registration of a bond issue is one practice which tends to defeat the purpose of the Securities Act. The Pacific Gas and Electric, in all good faith, for instance, filed 26,000 pages with the Commission. Obviously no one but a corps of trained account-

BOND REFUND PLAN BEATEN BY ASSEMBLY

40 SOLONS MISSING

Second Set-Back for Finance Program

Clark Hunsicker, Pickaway-co's representative in the general assembly, voted with 50 other Ohio legislators today to overwhelmingly defeat the Lawrence senate bill providing for the refunding of maturing bonds to supply money for current operating expenses of distressed political subdivisions.

Mr. Hunsicker is a Democrat.

The vote was 34 for the bill and 51 against. The measure received exactly half the number of affirmative votes required for passage.

The Lawrence measure had been sought as an alternative to the governor's proposed bond moratorium which has not yet come to a vote in the house.

40 Members Absent

About 40 members of the house were absent when the vote was taken on the refunder bill. Since it fell 34 votes short of passage, administration leaders feared it could not make the hurdle, even if brought to a vote the second time next week when there is better attendance.

Defeat of the refunder was the second major set-back for Gov. Davey's emergency financial program. While the Lawrence bill originally did not have his blessing, he later accepted it as a part of his program, but continued to insist that his two-year bond moratorium also be enacted.

Most of the members who opposed the refunder were lined up

Gas Tax Beaten

COLUMBUS, April 26—Failing in their attempt to tack another penny on Ohio motorists' taxes by increasing the gasoline tax to five cents, administration leaders today turned to proposals for an income tax and 'service tax' for the $6,000,000 asked by Gov. Davey to provide for old age pensions during the last half of the current year.

ATHENS ACCEPTS OHIO FUEL OFFER

COLUMBUS, April 26— The 11-year-old Logan Gas case was considered closed by the state public utilities commission today as Athens city offiials informed the commission they have entered into a contract with Ohio Fuel Gas company, successor to the Logan Gas company.

Decision of the commission, giving the Logan Gas company $2,716,932 collected under protested rates in 16 Ohio cities, became effective as it applied to Athens, today. The ruling is already effective as it pertains to the other communities.

Athens officials today informed the commission the Ohio Fuel company has accepted a rate ordinance averaging 58 cents a thousand cubic feet, for one year, with an option permitting the city to renew the contract for two years.

Police Seizing Skates in Fight Against Accidents

Sergeant Rice of the Detroit police department is shown with a pile of roller skates confiscated from children skating in the streets in violation of a recent city regulation.

DETROIT, April 26—An ever growing pile of roller skates in every precinct police station in the city bears mute evidence to the new police methods of combating traffic accidents involving children on skates.

The skates have been confiscated by policemen, from children who insist on using the streets for a playground. Heinrich A. Pickert, police commissioner, recently ordered his men to stop every child caught skating in the street, and to take away his skates.

The action raises the question that has long faced this city, that there are inadequate playground facilities. Impounding the skates, Commissioner Pickert believes, will definitely cut down the number of youthful traffic fatalities by keeping the children on the sidewalks. But it will not solve the problem of how to allow the children to live out their normal urges for recreation and fun.

Other Pleas Fail

Pickert pointed out that every other way of curtailing these accidents has failed.

"Last year we tried roping off certain streets for the exclusive use of roller skaters," he said.

CAR DRIVERS TO FACE TEST

Senate Passes Bills Expected to Reduce Accidents In State

Under the twin measures, 1,400,000 Ohio automobile drivers would be compelled to obtain a drivers' license upon payment of a fee of 25 cents when license tags are purchased from deputy registrars of motor vehicles. They would also be required to post financial liability bond to guarantee responsibility in case of accident.

Claiming organized motorists throughout the state have fought for these bills for several years, officials of the Ohio Automobile association predicted final approval of the bills by Gov. Davey will be the final step in the most important step Ohio has taken to curb accidents.

Huey is Quiet as Bailey Assails Detroit Priest

WASHINGTON, April 26 - Although his critics have publicly accused him of being allied with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the Detroit "radio priest," in his attacks on the administration, Senator Huey P. Long, "the Louisiana "King-fish" nevertheless remained silent in the senate during a one-man attack on the priest's policies on national affairs.

The attack was made by Senator Bailey (D) of North Carolina. He accused the priest, whom he called "Coughlin - not Father Coughlin," of having stepped out of his church into the political arena.

"When a minister of the gospel or a minister of the church comes down into the political arena or goes out with his radio incendiarism and stirs up hate in a distressed world among a suffering people—I think it's not remiss," Bailey stated in explaining he was calling the priest Coughlin—not Father Coughlin, with intent."

"Coughlin—not Father Coughlin I say it again. Coughlin has crucified the American people upon his lamnable ambition. He can't be called father in American politics. In a church he can have his priestly robes and his power of absolution, but when he undertakes to hand a harp or a halo to the American people through politics, then he loses his priestly power.

YOUNG KILLERS DIE IN 'CHAIR' IN N. Y. PRISON

Pluzdrak and Salek, Captured Here Sept. 2, Slew Buffalo Officer

BOTH DIE STOICALLY

Arrest Followed Wild Ride in Stolen Car

Two Buffalo, N. Y. youths, Stanley Pluzdrak, 18 and Bruno Salek, 21, captured here Sunday Sept. 2, paid with their lives last night in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for the murder two days earlier of a Buffalo police lieutenant, George Uhl.

The youths, one of them the youngest to pay the death penalty in New York in many years, were put to death, Salek at 11:05 and Pluzdrak at 11:10 p. m. Salek was the gun man, Pluzdrak was his accomplice.

Both went to the death chamber with stoical calm.

Petitions signed by more than 10,000 Buffalo and Niagra Falls residents, most of whom were Polish, the nationality of the youths, urging executive clemency of Governor Herbert Lehman, of New York, were ignored. Court of appeals and the state supreme court upheld their conviction which came after a trial in Buffalo superior court. Mayor W. B. Cady and ex-Officer Raymond H. Smith testified against the youths.

Caught After Wreck

Pluzdrak and Salek were captured here with Alice Zimmerman, Salek's "moll," after the automobile they had stolen failed to make a curve at Main and Mingo-sts. All three were hurt but Pluzdrak escaped the scene of the crash. He was arrested several hours later, trying to steal an automobile on the south end of the city.

Their arrest was telephoned to New York and word immediately came back that they were wanted for murder and to hold them under guard.

They readily admitted killing Lieut. Uhl who had stopped them for questioning. Salek said the officer shot first and he killed him in self defense.

The youths were connected with a number of holdups and several other Buffalo youths were arrested and sentenced for participation. Salek and Pluzdrak admitted abducting and robbing Theodore R. Keating, wealthy Buffalo man, taking him to the vicinity of Olean, N. Y., hitting him in the head and throwing him into a ditch. They were in Keating's car when they were wrecked.

The Zimmerman girl has been indicted for being an accessory in the Keating abduction but her case has not been disposed of.

Delayed from Nov. 6

Salek and Pluzdrak were originally sentenced to die November 6 but delays resulted when their attorneys, appointed by the court, carried the convictions to the higher courts.

CAR DRIVERS TO FACE TEST

Senate Passes Bills Expected to Reduce Accidents In State

COLUMBUS, April 26—The Ohio bureau of motor vehicles today prepared to administer two more regulations of Ohio motorists after the house adopted drivers' license and drivers' responsibility bills already passed by the senate.

Under the twin measures, 1,400,000 Ohio automobile drivers would be compelled to obtain a drivers' license upon payment of a fee of 25 cents when license tags are purchased from deputy registrars of motor vehicles. They would also be required to post financial liability bond to guarantee responsibility in case of accident.

Claiming organized motorists throughout the state have fought for these bills for several years, officials of the Ohio Automobile association predicted final approval of the bills by Gov. Davey will be the final step in the most important step Ohio has taken to curb accidents.

Huey is Quiet as Bailey Assails Detroit Priest

WASHINGTON, April 26—Although his critics have publicly accused him of being allied with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the Detroit "radio priest," in his attacks on the administration, Senator Huey P. Long, "the Louisiana "King-fish" nevertheless remained silent in the senate during a one-man attack on the priest's policies on national affairs.

The attack was made by Senator Bailey (D) of North Carolina. He accused the priest, whom he called "Coughlin - not Father Coughlin," of having stepped out of his church into the political arena.

"When a minister of the gospel or a minister of the church comes down into the political arena or goes out with his radio incendiarism and stirs up hate in a distressed world among a suffering people—I think it's not remiss," Bailey stated in explaining he was calling the priest Coughlin—not Father Coughlin, with intent."

"Coughlin—not Father Coughlin—I say it again. Coughlin has crucified the American people upon his lamnable ambition. He can't be called father in American politics. In a church he can have his priestly robes and his power of absolution, but when he undertakes to hand a harp or a halo to the American people through politics, then he loses his priestly power.

It includes 14 numbers starting with America and ending with the Star Spangled Banner. Each of the four bands will present a soloist with one selection assigned to each.

$50,000 OF MAIL LOOT RECOVERED

Attempt Made to Link Warren and Butler Robbers; Agents In Ohio

AKRON, April 26—Hoping to link the $100,000 Warren mail truck robbery with a $50,000 mail robbery at Butler, Pa., Aug 24, 1934, to trace both holdup to an Akron gang, R. V. Kelly, Philadelphia postal inspector, and Samuel May, Pennsylvania state patrolman, came to Akron today.

May said the Warren stickup was "very similar" to the Butler robbery when three men held up a mail truck and escaped with $50,000 in currency and negotiable paper. The three bandits have not been apprehended.

The officials came to Akron to aid in the search of one of the Portage lakes near here where two boys discovered a United States mail pouch containing more than $50,000 in registered bonds, said to be one of the four pouches taken in the Warren holdup.

YOUNG KILLERS DIE IN 'CHAIR' IN N. Y. PRISON

Pluzdrak and Salek, Captured Here Sept. 2, Slew Buffalo Officer

Arrest Followed Wild Ride in Stolen Car

Two Buffalo, N. Y. youths, Stanley Pluzdrak, 18 and Bruno Salek, 21, captured here Sunday Sept. 2, paid with their lives last night in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for the murder two days earlier of a Buffalo police lieutenant, George Uhl.

The youths, one of them the youngest to pay the death penalty in New York in many years, were put to death Salek at 11:05 and Pluzdrak at 11:10 p. m. Salek was the gun man; Pluzdrak was his accomplice.

Both went to the death chamber with stoical calm.

Petitions signed by more than 10,000 Buffalo and Niagra Falls residents, most of whom were Polish, the nationality of the youths, urging executive clemency of Governor Herbert Lehman, of New York, were ignored. Court of appeals and the state supreme court upheld their conviction which came after a trial in Buffalo superior court. Mayor W. B. Cady and ex-Officer Raymond H. Smith testified against the youths.

Caught After Wreck

Pluzdrak and Salek were captured here with Alice Zimmerman, Salek's "moll," after the automobile they had stolen failed to make a curve at Main and Mingo-sts. All three were hurt but Pluzdrak escaped the scene of the crash. He was arrested several hours later trying to steal an automobile in the south end of the city.

Their arrest was telephoned to New York and word immediately came back that they were wanted for murder and to hold them under guard.

They readily admitted killing Lieut. Uhl who had stopped them for questioning. Salek said the officer shot first and he killed him in self defense.

The youths were connected with a number of holdups and several other Buffalo youths were arrested and sentenced for participation. Salek and Pluzdrak admitted abducting and robbing Theodore B. Keating, wealthy Buffalo man, taking him to the vicinity of Olean, N. Y., hitting him in the head and throwing him into a ditch. They were in Keating's car when they were wrecked.

The Zimmerman girl has been indicted for being an accessory in the Keating abduction but her case has not been disposed of.

Delayed from Nov. 6

Salek and Pluzdrak were originally sentenced to die November 6 but delays resulted when their attorneys, appointed by the court, carried the convictions to the higher courts.

LANCASTER PAYS ILLEGAL BILLS

The examiner who filed the report is George B. Rector, of near Circleville.

CITIZENS URGED TO CO-OPERATE IN CLEAN-UP WEEK

JUSTUS TO HAVE WORKERS CLEAR AL FOUR SECTIONS

Residents of Circleville are urged to co-operate with the city service department next week in a city-wide Clean-up and Paint-up campaign.

While each resident of the city is responsible for having his own rubbish hauled away the service department will assist by clearing away rubbish placed in alleys. W. S. Justice, chief of the service department, has divided the city into four sections and will have his workers visit all four starting next Monday.

Sections Listed

Section 1, north of Main and west of Court, will be visited on Monday;

Section 2, east of Court and north of Main, will be cleaned up Tuesday; Section 3, west of Court and south of Main, will be given two day's cleaning on Wednesday and Thursday.

Section 4, south of Main and east of Court, will be the object of the clean-up Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Justus wants it understood that only refuse that has been placed in the alleys will be removed. The city workers will not enter any yards to clean away rubbish.

It is urged that all who are financially able have their yards cleaned up. Not only will the clean-up help the appearance of the various properties in the city but it will provide some work.

The object of the drive is to have Circleville spic and span.

Ordinance Recalled

Many persons are not aware that an ordinance forces them to have their own rubbish and garbage hauled from their premises, and that they cannot place it in alleys unless for immediate removal.

The ordinance follows:

SEC. 223. It shall be unlawful for any person to throw, empty or deposit, or cause to be thrown, emptied or deposited, any ashes, earth, rubbish or refuse matter from any cellar, yard, dwelling or other place, upon any streets, alleys or public grounds of the city, except for immediate removal or by permission of the proper authorities; and any person so offending shall upon conviction thereof be fined in any sum not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned in the city prison not more than ten days, or both; and, moreover, shall be liable for the cost of removing the same from your real estate.

SEC. 224. It shall be the duty of the board of public service upon notice or information of any violation of the preceding section to notify the mayor thereof, and also to notify the owner, lessee or agent of any lot or lots adjoining any street, alley or public grounds upon which any such ashes, earth, rubbish or refuse matter may have been thrown, emptied or deposited, to remove the same; and unless such persons so offending comply with such notice within twenty-four hours from the time of receiving said notice, the board of public service shall remove the same at the expense of the owner or owners of said lot or lots, which expense, if not paid by such owner or owners shall stand as a charge against such lot or lots, and shall be certified by the city auditor to the county auditor, to be placed upon the tax duplicate and collected as other taxes.

against the moratorium as well. The house taxation committee has recommended passage of the moratorium but it has never been brought to a vote.

"Unsound Financing"

Before its defeat the refunder bill was roundly denounced by Representatives George Harter (D), Akron and Albert Mayer (R), Cincinnati as unsound financing and "an attempt to kid the public" into believing it would not increase the cost of government.

When he saw defeat of the bill was inevitable, the Democratic floor leader, Rep. Frank Uible, Cleveland, cast his vote against it so he would be in a position to offer a motion for reconsideration later.

WOMAN REPORTS STIGMATISM ON HANDS AND FEET

NEW YORK, April 26—A widowed mother nearing 60 today at her home in Hempstead, L. I., showed marks resembling the stigmata which, she said, appeared as the result of a dream in which she declared she spoke to Christ.

At her home, Mrs. Mary F. Conners, 56, showed to reporters the wounds, not yet healed, though her dream was on February 8.

"I was saying the rosary in bed that night," said Mrs. Conners, "and fell asleep. It seemed I was walking along a road up a hill, and suddenly Christ was walking beside me. I asked him about his suffering on the cross and his death, and he tried to tell me, but couldn't make me understand.

"When I awoke I tried to tell my beads, but my fingers were stiff and my hands and feet ached. In the morning I found wounds half an inch deep and an inch long on each of my hands and on each instep. They were the marks Christ got on the cross."

Wife's Worth

WARSAW—A railway guard, living in the village of Szabinie, "bartered" his wife. He was due to retire on pension, and looked forward to spending his old age on a little farm. His wife, however, was reluctant to leave the town and go to a farm, and after some inquiry the guard found she had a lover. The husband sought out the lover, and offered to divorce his wife, provided he were given "compensation." The lover agreed and the wife was handed over for $400 and two cows, police discovered.

GIRL TO PLEAD FOR ABDUCTOR

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 26—Pretty Mary McElroy was scheduled to appear before Gov. Guy B. Parks today and plead for a commutation of the death sentence given Walter McGee, leader of the gang that kidnaped her two years ago for $30,000.

The Missouri supreme court having denied McGhee a rehearing, he is scheduled to hang on May 10 for his part in the abduction of the daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy of Kansas City.

Learning of the supreme court's decision, Miss McElroy immediately decided to make a personal appeal to the governor on behalf of the man she "likes," she said:

"He must not die. I could never sleep. It might drive me crazy. Of course I like him immensely. He is terribly attractive and not at all bad looking."

against the moratorium as well. The house taxation committee has recommended passage of the moratorium but it has never been brought to a vote.

"Unsound Financing"

Before its defeat the refunder bill was roundly denounced by Representatives George Harter (D), Akron and Albert Mayer (R), Cincinnati as unsound financing and "an attempt to kid the public" into believing it would not increase the cost of government.

When he saw defeat of the bill was inevitable, the Democratic floor leader, Rep. Frank Uible, Cleveland, cast his vote against it so he would be in a position to offer a motion for reconsideration later.

WOMAN REPORTS STIGMATISM ON HANDS AND FEET

NEW YORK, April 26—A widowed mother nearing 60 today at her home in Hempstead, L. I., showed marks resembling the stigmata which, she said, appeared as the result of a dream in which she declared she spoke to Christ.

At her home, Mrs. Mary F. Conners, 56, showed to reporters the wounds, not yet healed, though her dream was on February 8.

'I was saying the rosary in bed that night," said Mrs. Conners, "and fell asleep. It seemed I was walking along a road up a hill, and suddenly Christ was walking beside me. I asked him about his suffering on the cross and his death, and he tried to tell me, but couldn't make me understand.

"When I awoke I tried to tell my beads, but my fingers were stiff and my hands and feet ached. In the morning I found wounds half an inch deep and an inch long on each of my hands and on each instep. They were the marks Christ got on the cross."

Wife's Worth

WARSAW—A railway guard, living in the village of Szubinie, "bartered" his wife. He was due to retire on pension, and looked forward to spending his old age on a little farm. His wife, however, was reluctant to leave the town and go to a farm, and after some inquiry the guard found she had a lover. The husband sought out the lover, and offered to divorce his wife, provided he were given "compensation." The lover agreed and the wife was handed over for $400 and two cows, police discovered.

Oxalic acid is a colorless crystalline substance with an intensely sour taste.

GIRL TO PLEAD FOR ABDUCTOR

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 26— Pretty Mary McElroy was scheduled to appear before Gov. Guy S. Parks today and plead for a commutation of the death sentence given Walter McGee, leader of the gang that kidnaped her two years ago for $30,000.

The Missouri supreme court having denied McGhee a rehearing, he is scheduled to hang on May 10 for his part in the abduction of the daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy of Kansas City.

Learning of the supreme court's decision, Miss McElroy immediately decided to make a personal appeal to the governor on behalf of the man she "likes." She said:

"He must not die. I could never sleep. It might drive me crazy. Of course I like him immensely. He is terribly attractive and not at all bad looking."

Disguise Effective

OKLAHOMA CITY—Disguised as an old pop corn vendor, R. S. Worthy, city detective and modern Sherlock Holmes, broke up a gang of motor car thieves here operating under the noses of the Sooner state legislators.

The name "dobbin" was so widely used in England as a pet name for horses that it became a general nickname for the entire equine species.

WANTED—ONE SUPER-WOMAN

WITH a nice assurance that a female of the special will be elected vice president of the United States at least by 1940, the League for a Woman President and Vice President has cast an eye even farther into the future and let it dwell upon the day we shall have a lady president. With this rather indefinitely in mind — the date of the latter great event is not given, but it is set tentatively for this generation — their league has named the characteristics of America's Madam President.

Generally speaking, it will be "a woman who does things in a big way, a super-woman," says the founder of the league. The definition, at least intriguing. In the event that such a woman doesn't happen to be available it might be well to elect a man with the same virtues. The difficulty is in finding a living person whose super qualities are recognized outside the most earnest inner circle of his (or her) political party. Ordinarily people, do not become super beings until they have been dead at least fifty years.

The question of the effect on a woman President's husband has been raised in the league with the conclusion he "would boast for the rest of his life." Certainly the husband could set a standard of conduct for the "first gentleman of the land."

WHY WORRY?

A SCORE of years ago worry stories were among the surest sellers to certain magazines that made high-brow pretension by including in each issue at least one article discussing economic questions. The besetting fear of the time was that humanity, and particularly the branch of it resident in the United States would run out of something.

We were rapidly going short on necessities in those days, if the professional prognosticators were to be believed. They had it all figured out: Coal was to last 30 years; oil would trickle out in 30 years; the forests would be used up in 10 years, and the population would increase to tax the resources of the farms at no specified time but soon.

It is a pleasant thought that perhaps the worries of the present year may prove as baseless as were those of 20 years ago.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Motion pictures, says a scientist, may soon transmit the sensation of smell. As a matter of fact, we've thought a number of times that we actually noticed it.

How Federal Government Safeguards Our Foods

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"WHAT HAS recently been learned of the relations of food to health constitutes one of the major scientific developments of our times." So writes Professor Sherman in his book, "Food and Health" and no one is better qualified than he to judge.

Dr. Clendening

It is not only on the health side that these advances have been made, but also on the economic side. "Half the struggle for life is a struggle for food," it has been said, but never before in history was there been a time when good food, the kind which fulfills all the requirements of nutrition and sanitation, could be procured so inexpensively.

So far as sanitation is concerned, the federal government, in connection with the state governments, carries out food inspections to see that it comes from sanitary sources, and is not contaminated in handling or transportation. The powers granted to many boards of health in this respect are very broad. In New York City, the board of health has the power to enact a sanitary code which becomes law on publication, without requiring the approval of any other body or official.

Investigates Manufactures

Aside from the legal restrictions, the American Medical association, through its committee on foods, investigates manufactured food products and tests the claims of the makers. When a food or a brand of food products satisfies the ideas of the committee it then grants the manufacturer the seal of approval of the committee. Businesses are beginning to realize the importance of this seal and to require that the foods they purchase shall carry it.

On the economic side, the great increase in production made possible by the spread of scientific knowledge of agriculture has been largely responsible for cheaper food. Aided by this cheaper and more rapid transportation, but also by effective methods of purification. The manufacturing and preserving of food has now been developed so that the essential nutritional elements are kept intact.

Sometimes abused, in our modern complicated life, are the artificialities of food products which are so valuable as improvements in their nutritional value of the food — when, for instance, refining or preserving removes vitamin or destroys or removes other poisons. The housekeeper, therefore, must continue to be alert, not to lower her "sales resistance" intact.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

By McDONALD FEADER

CHAPTER 46

EVERYTHING that money could buy in this city of New York was Consuelo's for the asking. But money had lost its value and its meaning. A dollar was no longer a dollar; a thousand dollars a mere trifle. Occasionally she remembered how her pockets had hung with gold after dancing at a country fair before a few farmers, and how she had counted the spoils greedily. That, however, was so long ago it was not this famous dancer, but a poor little gypsy girl who was weaving a dream. The road between then and now was a long, long way, and sometimes it was even hard to remember that she had been a gypsy who wore full striped skirts and cheap jewelry and trod barefoot over dusty ground and stole apples and plums and kisses with equal abandon. So it is when much happens that time loses perspective and a short period in actual days and weeks and months may be endless like a dream.

Among the inner circle it was Stewart and Consuelo now, quite taken for granted and one was not asked without the other. They quarreled less often and less violently. He was deeply infatuated with her, but at times awoke to the sense of her tyranny over him and would go off on a tangent of blonde-hunting, only to return repentant, fervently hoping that she had not found out about him. If she knew, she kept her gypsy jealousy well hidden under the cloak of acquired refinement.

She had the promised penthouse, but it only served to bring the snow closer to her. In fact, she had everything she wanted except one thing and neither Stewart nor New York could give her that. She told Douglas of it on one of his rare visits alone with her.

"Doug, do you ever get tired of the clock? Sometimes I think I'll go mad, insane mad, when someone says—it is time to get to the theater or time to do this or that. I once was as free as the wind, and now I cannot call a minute of the day my own. It was a crazy man who put the hands on the clocks and chained us like moneys to them."

"Well, little chicken, getting tired of this? It's only gypsies and silly people like that who don't have to pay attention to the clock. Famous people, like Consuelo the dancer, must always be at a certain place at a certain time. For the first time, young lady, you are realizing how we poor slaving men are slaves for other slaves not so poor and so on ad infinitum, and all slaves to the clock. What would your dear public think if you weren't there when the curtain went up? 'Exclamations of surprise and delight,' no, that's wrong, 'surprise and chagrin' good word if you know what it means, 'issued from a thousand mouths when it was discovered that the gypsy was not among those present and—'"

"Don't make fun of me, Douglas, please don't! I'm awfully tired."

"You see, you won't let me finish. You go the pace and then because you're tired and cross you take it out on me, the humblest of your admirers. You're falling into the habit of that old American custom of burning the candle at both ends. It means, little chicken, that you overdo everything, nothing in half measures, sensibly." He paused. "Of course, I might go into this technically, but then you wouldn't understand." The mockery left his voice. "Stewart is a fool to let you run around the way you do. Pretty soon you'll burn out like an electric light bulb—pooh!"

"I'm not going to the theater tonight."

"Now you are the crazy one with your talk! Tell me, Douglas, is it possible that we might go into the country and find a tree to lie under?"

"It's an offer!" He shivered. "I'm sorry, not today! It's just your gypsy bravado that makes you say that. You really don't mean it, you know. My child, for miles and miles around about, the ground is covered with snow and sleet and ice cubes and the trees are standing naked and cold and wishing for a georgette blouse or a pair of silk stockings—"

"Oh, stop! Stop!"

She stirred the logs in the fireplace and stared at the flames. They did not speak. Presently she slid down from the chair and squatted cross-legged on the floor. She began to hum. After a moment words in Romany welled from her throat. The song dropped off as plaintively as it had begun.

"Now I am warm again."

Silence between them.

"Douglas, come sit on the floor with me and we will play a game, just you and I."

"Sold." He slipped down beside her. "All right, darling, I'll cut out the wise cracking—it is all I have to hide my broken heart under—you know, laugh while tears choke—et cetera—but you must not suspect how wretched I am."

She disregarded him.

"This is not a fireplace, but an open campfire. You are not Douglas but Nobody. I am not the famous dancer. I, too, am Nobody. It is summer and flowers are in bloom and the air is filled with the scent of pine and alder. Over there by the chair is a nice wide brook. Growing out of it are those big cupped leaves like umbrellas where side up and on one is sitting a frog, a little green frog, a very innocent frog—"

He interrupted, "Frogs are all innocent."

"But this one is especially innocent. He has never heard of drinking it straight or of imported liquor or of Martinis or of the Follies, and above all, he knows nothing of a clock. We will not give him a name. He, too, is Nobody, just the same as we. So there are the three of us—us Nobodies. It is night and the stars are big and bright like lovely little lanterns hanging in the sky, and each little lantern rests on the doorstep of a friend. But they are friends who do not crowd in upon us, but nod and smile from a distance—nice kind of friends, you see. The brook is singing a song more soft and more beautiful than a flute. We are very still. We do not speak, but just sit and drink in this beauty around us. We are in love. From the beginning of the earth we have loved—" Her voice trailed off. The picture before her faded. "No, I am wrong. That was someone else—not me, not you. I'm not going to the theater tonight."

"You're nutty, you've got to go!"

"No, no, this is not me, but Nobody. I'm not going to the theater tonight."

"And why?"

"Because I have suddenly gotten my freedom—" The word stayed with her. "I have gotten my freedom. Freedom, that is the thing. I am no longer a monkey swinging on the hands of the clock. I go where I please, when I please and how I please!"

"Great! However, Miss Nobody, if you are as free as that, I must be—"

"Miss me."

They kissed.

"You understand that this kiss is not meant for you?"

"Now you're spoiling it. I thought we were playing a game."

"So we are. That kiss was not meant for Nobody, but for Somebody." She laughed. "Now let's get on a boat and sail the seven seas and never come back." She was gay.

"Miss Consuelo—" an alien voice intruded—"it's time for your bath. Mr. Stewart phoned that he would be early."

Heard & Seen

BY KAY JAY

High-brow scientific minds are always delving into things that have a tendency to take the joy out of the lives of the common or ordinary variety of humanity. Here comes one Dr. Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Association Journal, who tells us there's no such thing as spring fever, an ailment that has long been man's inalienable right to acquire, or submit to, with the advent of each spring season. The good doctor says there's no such malady it's just an alibi for taking the afternoon off.

Whatever it is, it is my belief that we'll keep on having it just the same. It is an ailment that can hardly be dismissed with a yawn, as suggested—it requires several yawns to get it out of your system.

Imagine telling a small boy that he ought to spade the garden the first warm day of spring, when all his natural instincts and inclinations tell him to hike to the nearest fishing hole, drop a line in the water then hunt a soft spot on the grass and stretch out in the warm sunshine there to dream of a life of luxury and ease. Man is just an over-grown boy, and when the spring fever hits him he is just as irresponsible. He wants to go fishing, see a baseball game, prowl along the river, or do anything else that pleases him just so it isn't working at his accustomed type of employment. The fever is "broken" within a brief period of time, and all is well again with body, soul and mind.

I cannot subscribe to the scientific theory that spring fever is just an alibi—it's just as real as warm air and sunshine, and just as enjoyable.

The fish are biting over in North fork of Paint creek. Wednesday afternoon I saw several small boys proudly carrying home good-sized strings. They had fished up and down the creek from the double bridge west of New Holland, and each boy in the procession seemed to have had good luck.

Over in Paint creek the other day, one fisherman I know had unusual luck, two ways. He landed a 14-inch bass and put the specimen on a string and into the water while he continued fishing. One of his companions discarded a cigaret at random and the burning fag ignited the string with which the prize bass was anchored to a bush. Well, you know what happened. The string burned in two and Mr. Bass returned to his native haunts. And that's how the fight started, and why my friend chooses to fish hereafter with companions who do not smoke.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Suicide Ridge" is in the movies!

A mountain ridge overlooking the San Antonio Canyon, in Southern California, has attained notoriety because of the many suicidal leaps from its terrifying heights.

When the film, "In Spite of Danger," a Columbia production coming to the Cliftona Theatre, was "shot," just such a ridge was necessary for the out-door scenes, and the beautiful, but treacherous, mountain area became the "set." Along these dangerous precipices Wallace Ford, featured with lovely Marian March, speeds a huge truckload of dynamite in a thrilling race for money and romance.

AT THE GRAND

"Murder In The Clouds," the new First National mystery thriller, at the Grand Theatre today, with Lyle Talbot, Ann Dvorak and Gordon Westcott heading the all star cast.

It is an exciting melodrama of the air, written by the noted magazine writers, Roy Chanslor and Dore Schary, concerns a plot of international conspirators to steal a secret formula for high explosives from the U. S. Government.

AT THE CIRCLE

Tarzan the Police Dog is a product of California. Tarzan, who stars in the Stage and Screen production, "Inside Information," which is now playing at the Circle Theatre, showed promise of becoming a great actor from early puppyhood. Tarzan was intelligent beyond belief. Even his trainer, found it hard to believe that a puppy as young as Tarzan would respond so readily to his instructions. Tarzan is not a trick dog! Trainer McHugh wants it clearly understood that Tarzan isn't just able to do several stunts which have been drilled into him over a long period of time. Tarzan is educated.

STALL TOWN FRIENDLINESS

(Washington C. H. Herald)

The smaller cities and towns and rural communities have long been recognized as the more desirable places in which to live. There is a closer friendship existing among the residents there than there is—than there can possibly be—in the large cities. People know one another more intimately. They are in close touch with one another's affairs. They know of the joys and the sorrows of other residents. They rejoice when good fortune smiles on other residents and they sympathize, sincerely, when sorrow comes.

It is very unusual, even in times of the most severe economic depressions, to hear of bread lines, or soup kitchens or the like in the smaller cities and towns and that is largely because friends rally to the relief of the unfortunate in informal ways, but far more effective than can be done in more densely populated places because there goes with the aid given the sincere sympathy of close friendship.

Pedro, the lion-tamer, was ill and unable to make his performance at the circus that night, so his wife applied for the job.

"Do you think you can manage the animals?" asked the circus proprietor.

"Did Pedro manage them all right?" she asked.

"Most successfully," said the other, wonderingly.

"Well, that's all right, then," she returned. "I can manage Pedro."

CORRECT BIDDING AND PROBABLE PLAY

AN INQUIRER states that the hands were bid: West (Dealer), 2-Clubs; North, 2-Spades; South, 3-Spades. East led the 10 of diamonds. "How should this hand have been bid and played?"

No system of modern bidding permits an opening bid on a six-card suit unless side strength is held, as the information conveyed is worthless to partner, and only spurs opposing bidding. North never should have bid 2-Spades on a four-card suit. He should have made an informatory double, which South should have left in and collected a nice penalty. South should not have supported spades on three small cards. He should have passed or shifted into 2-No Trumps. The 10 of diamonds lead was as wrong as could be. You lead from the top of a sequence (the Q in this case). You follow suit from the bottom of a sequence.

Bidding should have gone: North, 1-Spade; East (satisfied with the call) should pass; South, 1-No Trump (showing no biddable suit, no assisting length in spades and a probable total strength of about two Kings); West (hoping to run off six club tricks) should pass; North (having told his whole story and not being long enough in spades to rebid) should pass. Had South shown another suit over spades North could support either red suit, or bid 2-No Trumps had partner bid 2-Clubs.

Against South's 1-No Trump West will lead his Ace of clubs, to show great length and strength. Both declarer and dummy will follow suit on the first two leads of clubs. East should first discard his 7 of diamonds, to show what he wants partner to lead, then he should let go his lowest heart, to ask partner not to lead that suit. On the third lead of clubs the dummy may let go its lowest diamond and East probably will let go the 6 of hearts. He must hold four diamonds and four spades for the moment. If West leads his last club honor the declarer will make 2-odd, as his only other losing trick will be to the Ace of hearts.

West should not lead a fourth round of clubs, as that will establish a winner of the suit in South's hand, allowing him to win the following tricks: Three spade tricks, two heart tricks, two diamond tricks and one club trick. In case West takes only three club tricks before leading the diamonds for which his partner has called it is probable that only 1-No Trump can be made.

WANTED—ONE SUPER-WOMAN

WITH a nice assurance that a female of the special will be elected vice president of the United States at least by 1940, the League for a Woman President and Vice President has cast an eye even farther into the future and let it dwell upon the day we shall have a lady president. With this rather indefinitely in mind — the date of the latter great event is not given, but it is set tentatively for this generation — their league has named the characteristics of America's Madam President.

Generally speaking, it will be "a woman who does things in a big way, a super-woman," says the founder of the league. The definition, at least intriguing. In the event that such a woman doesn't happen to be available it might be well to elect a man with the same virtues. The difficulty is in finding a living person whose super qualities are recognized outside the most earnest inner circle of his (or her) political party. Ordinarily people, do not become super beings until they have been dead at least fifty years.

The question of the effect on a woman President's husband has been raised in the league with the conclusion he "would boast for the rest of his life."Certainly the husband could set a standard of conduct for the "first gentleman of the land."

WHY WORRY?

A SCORE of years ago worry stories were among the surest sellers to certain magazines that made high-brow pretension by including in each issue at least one article discussing economic questions. The besetting fear of the time was that humanity, and particularly the branch of it resident in the United States would run out of something.

We were rapidly going short on necessities in those days, if the professional prognosticators were to be believed. They had it all figured out; Coal was to last 30 years; oil would trickle out in 30 years; the forests would be used up in 10 years, and the population would increase to tax the resources of the farms at no specified time but soon.

It is a pleasant thought that perhaps the worries of the present year may prove as baseless as were those of 20 years ago.

How Federal Government Safeguards Our Foods

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"WHAT HAS recently been learned of the relations of food to health constitutes one of the major scientific developments of our times." So writes Professor Sherman in his book, "Food and Health", and no one is better qualified than he to judge.

Dr. Clendening

It is not only on the health side that these advances have been made, but also on the economic side. "Half the struggle for life is a struggle for food," it has been said, but never before in history has there been a time when good food, and food which fulfills all the requirements of nutrition and sanitation, could be procured so inexpensively.

So far as sanitation is concerned, the federal government, in conjunction with the state governments, carries out food inspections to see that it comes from sanitary sources, and is not contaminated in handling or transportation. The powers granted to many boards of health in this respect are very broad. In New York City, the board of health has the power to enact a sanitary code which becomes law on publication, without requiring the approval of any other body or official.

Investigates Manufactures

Aside from the legal restrictions, the American Medical association, through its committee on foods, investigates manufactured food products and tests the claims of the makers. When a food or a brand of food products satisfies the ideas of the committee, it then grants the manufacturer the seal of approval of the committee. Housewives are beginning to recognize the importance of this seal, and to require that the goods they purchase shall carry it.

On the economic side, the great increase in production made possible by the spread of scientific knowledge of agriculture, has been largely responsible for cheaper food. Added to this cheaper and more rapid transportation, helped also by effective methods of refrigeration. The manufacturing and preserving of food has now been developed so that the essential nutritional elements are kept intact.

Sometimes, indeed, in our modern manufacturing era, the artificialities of food products which are so vehemently advanced as improvements, are really detrimental to the nutritive value of the food—when, for instance, refining or preserving removes minerals or destroys or removes vitamins. The housekeeper, therefore, must continue to be alert, and to keep her "sales resistance" intact.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

FICTION

By McDONALD FEADER

CHAPTER 46

EVERYTHING that money could buy in this city of New York was Consuelo's for the asking. But money had lost its value and its meaning. A dollar was no longer a dollar; a thousand dollars a mere trifle. Occasionally she remembered how her pockets had hung with gold after dancing at a country fair before a few farmers, and how she had counted the spoils greedily. That, however, was so long ago it was not this famous dancer, but a poor little gypsy girl who was weaving a dream. The road bteween then and now was a long, long way, and sometimes it was even hard to remember that she had been a gypsy who wore full striped skirts and cheap jewelry and trod barefoot over dusty ground and stole apples and plums and kisses with equal abandon. So it is when much happens that time loses perspective and a short period in actual days and weeks and months may be endless like a dream.

Among the inner circle it was Stewart and Consuelo now, quite taken for granted and one was not asked without the other. They quarreled less often and less violently. He was deeply infatuated with her, but at times awoke to the sense of her tyranny over him and would go off on a tangent of blonde-hunting, only to return repentant, fervently hoping that she had not found out about him. If she knew, she kept her gypsy jealousy well hidden under the cloak of acquired refinement.

She had the promised penthouse, but it only served to bring the snow closer to her. In fact, she had everything she wanted except one thing and neither Stewart nor New York could give her that. She told Douglas of it on one of his rare visits alone with her.

"Doug, do you ever get tired of the clock? Sometimes I think I'll go mad, insane mad, when someone says —it is time to get to the theater or time to do this or that. I once was as free as the wind, and now I cannot call a minute of the day my own. It was a crazy man who put the hands on the clocks and chained us like moneys to them."

"Well, little chicken, getting tired of this? It's only gypsies and silly people like that who don't have to pay attention to the clock. Famous people, like Consuelo the dancer, must always be at a certain place at a certain time. For the first time, young lady, you are realizing how we poor slaving men are slaves for other slaves not so poor and so on ad infinitum, and all slaves to the clock. What would your dear public think if you weren't there when the curtain went up? 'Exclamations of surprise and delight,' no, that's wrong, 'surprise and chagrin', good word if you know what it means, 'issued from a thousand mouths when it was discovered that the gypsy was not among those present and—'"

"Don't make fun of me, Douglas, please don't! I'm awfully tired."

"You see, you won't let me finish. You go the pace and then because you're tired and cross you take it out on me, the humblest of your admirers. You're falling into the habit of that old American custom of burning the candle at both ends. It means, little chicken, that you overdo everything, nothing in half measures, sensibly." He paused. "Of course, I might go into this technically, but then you wouldn't understand." The mockery left his voice. "Stewart is a fool to let you run around the way you do. Pretty soon you'll burn out like an electric light bulb—pooh!"

"I'm not going to the theater tonight."

"Now you are the crazy one with your talk! Tell me, Dougalas, is it possible that we might go into the country and find a tree to lie under?"

"It's an offer!" He shivered. "I'm sorry, not today! It's just your gypsy bravado that makes you say that. You really don't mean it, you know. My child, for miles and miles around about, the ground is covered with snow and sleet and ice cubes and the trees are standing naked and cold and wishing for a georgette blouse or a pair of silk stockings—"

"Oh, stop! Stop!"

She stirred the logs in the fireplace and stared at the flames. They did not speak. Presently she slid down from the chair and squatted cross-legged on the floor. She began to hum. After a moment words in Romany welled from her throat. The song dropped off as plaintively as it had begun.

"Now I am warm again."

Silence between them.

"Dougalas, come sit on the floor with me and we will play a game, just you and I."

"Sold." He slipped down beside her. "All right, darling, I'll cut out the wise cracking—it is all I have to hide my broken heart under—you know, laugh while tears choke—et cetera—but you must not suspect how wretched I am."

She disregarded him.

"This is not a fireplace, but an open campfire. You are not Doug, but Nobody. I am not the famous dancer, I, too, am Nobody. It is summer and flowers are in bloom and the air is filled with the scent of pine and alder. Over there by the chair is a nice wide brook. Growing out of it are those big cupped leaves like umbrellas wrong side up and on one is sitting a frog, a little green frog, a very innocent frog—"

He interrupted, "Frogs are all innocent."

"But this one is especially innocent. He has never heard of drinking it straight or of imported liquor or of Martinis or of the Follies, and above all, he knows nothing of a clock. We will not give him a name. He, too, is Nobody, just the same as we. So there are the three of us—us Nobodies. It is night and the stars are big and bright like lovely little lanterns hanging in the sky, and each little lantern rests on the doorstep of a friend. But they are friends who do not crowd in upon us, but nod and smile from a distance—nice kind of friends, you see. The brook is singing a song more soft and more beautiful than a flute. We are very still. We do not speak, but just sit and drink in this beauty around us. We are in love. From the beginning of the earth we have loved—" Her voice trailed off. The picture before her faded. "No, I am wrong. That was someone else—not me, not you. I'm not going to the theater tonight."

"You're nutty, you've got to go!"

"No, no, this is not me, but Nobody. I'm not going to the theater tonight."

"And why?"

"Because I have suddenly gotten my freedom—" The word stayed with her. "I have gotten my freedom. Freedom, that is the thing. I am no longer a monkey swinging on the hands of the clock. I go where I please, when I please and how I please!"

"Great! However, Miss Nobody, if you are as free as that, I must be free, too. Kiss me."

They kissed.

"You understand that this kiss is not meant for you?"

"Now you're spoiling it. I thought we were playing a game."

"So we are. That kiss was not meant for Nobody, but for Somebody." She laughed. "Now let's get on a boat and sail the seven seas and never come back." She was gay.

"Miss Consuelo—" an alien voice intruded. "It's time for your bath. Mr Stewart phoned that he would be early."

Heard & Seen

BY KAY JAY

High-brow scientific minds are always delving into things that have a tendency to take the joy out of the lives of the common or ordinary variety of humanity. Here comes one Dr. Fishbein editor of the American Medical Association Journal, who tells us there's no such thing as spring fever, an ailment that has long been man's inalienable right to acquire, or submit to, with the advent of each spring season. The good doctor says there's no such malady—it's just an alibi for taking the afternoon off.

Whatever it is, it is my belief that we'll keep on having it just the same. It is an ailment that can hardly be dismissed with a yawn, as suggested—it requires several yawns to get it out of your system.

Imagine telling a small boy that he ought to spade the garden the first warm day of spring, when all his natural instincts and inclinations tell him to hike to the nearest fishing hole, drop a line in the water, then hunt a soft spot on the grass and stretch out in the warm sunshine—there to dream of a life of luxury and ease. Man is just an over-grown boy, and when the spring fever hits him he is just as irresponsible. He wants to go fishing, see a baseball game, prowl along the river, or do anything else that pleases him—just so it isn't working at his accustomed type of employment. The fever is "broken" within a brief period of time, and all is well again with body, soul and mind.

I cannot subscribe to the scientific theory that spring fever is just an alibi—it's just as real as warm air and sunshine, and just as enjoyable.

They are in close touch with one another's affairs. They know of the joys and the sorrows of other residents. They rejoice when good fortune smiles on other residents and they sympathize, sincerely, when sorrow comes.

It is very unusual even in times of the most severe economic depressions, to hear of bread lines, or soup kitchens or the like in the smaller cities and towns and that is largely because friends rally to the relief of the unfortunate in informal ways, but far more effective than can be done in more densely populated places because there goes with the aid given the sincere sympathy of close friendship.

Dinner Stories

DOUBLE PLAY

Pedro, the lion-tamer, was ill and unable to make his performance at the circus that night, so his wife applied for the job.

"Do you think you can manage the animals?" asked the circus proprietor.

"Did Pedro manage them all right?" she asked.

"Most successfully," said the other, wonderingly.

"Well, that's all right, then," she returned. "I can manage Pedro."

CORRECT BIDDING AND PROBABLE PLAY

AN INQUIRER states that the hands were bid: West (Dealer), 2-Clubs; North, 2-Spades; South, 3-Spades. East led the 10 of diamonds. "How should this hand have been bid and played?"

No system of modern bidding permits an opening bid on a six-card suit unless side strength is held, as the information conveyed is worthless to partner, and only spurs opposing bidding. North never should have bid 2-Spades on a four-card suit. He should have made an informatory double, which South should have left in and collected a nice penalty. South should not have supported spades on three small cards. He should have passed or shifted into 2-No Trumps. The 10 of diamonds lead was as wrong as could be. You lead from the top of a sequence (the Q in this case). You follow suit from the bottom of a sequence.

Bidding should have gone: North, 1-Spade; East (satisfied with the call) should pass; South, 1-No Trump (showing no biddable suit, no assisting length in spades and a probable total strength of about two Kings); West (hoping to run off six club tricks) should pass; North (having told his whole story and not being long enough in spades to rebid) should pass. Had South shown another suit over spades North could support either red suit, or bid 2-No Trumps had partner bid 2-Clubs.

Against South's 1-No Trump West will lead his Ace of clubs, to show great length and strength. Both declarer and dummy will follow suit on the first two leads of clubs. East should first discard his 7 of diamonds, to show what he wants partner to lead, then he should let go his lowest heart, to ask partner not to lead that suit. On the third lead of clubs the dummy may let go its lowest diamond and East probably will let go the 6 of hearts. He must hold four diamonds and four spades for the moment. If West leads his last club honor the declarer will make 2-odd, as his only other losing trick will be to the Ace of hearts.

West should not lead a fourth round of clubs, as that will establish a winner of the suit in South's hand, allowing him to win the following tricks: Three spade tricks, two heart tricks, two diamond tricks and one club trick. In case West takes only three club tricks before leading the diamonds for which his partner has called it is probable that only 1-No Trump can be made.

Queries on All Cookery Answered by Mrs. Thurn

Dear Friends in Circleville:

The questions I had put aside for this week's letter cover a wide range of cookery problems. This first one made me laugh. Here it is and maybe you will like the recipe as much as the woman who ask for it. "I'm a minister's wife, but I am tempted to swear every time I roll out sand tarts. Please help."

Well she didn't say why she wanted to swear. Maybe it's the rolling pin, the board or the mixture. Or the height of the working table. Many things may influence the making of any successful cookie. But here is my favorite recipe for them:

Sand Tarts

One cup shortening; two cups sugar; two eggs; three cups flour; one fourth teaspoon salt; three teaspoons baking powder; one half cup crushed almonds.

Blend the shortening and sugar together; add the eggs well beaten; then the flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together. Mix to a stiff dough. Chill, then roll very thin. Cut into cookies with a round cutter. Brush the tops with egg white. Sprinkle sugar thickly and the chopped nuts on top. Bake on a baking sheet rubbed with shortening, in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., about ten minutes.

Macaroni Manners

Another house-keeper asked: "How can I recognize good macaroni?" Does she mean, shall she bow to it when meeting macaroni on the street, or smile and exchange the topics of the day? To "recognize" any quality food is to make sure you buy a quality brand. Packaged macaroni made by a manufacturer who is widely advertised, and guaranteed by the grocer, needs no further recommendation. As in any packaged product of good reputation the maker's name is the best guarantee. That's one of the reasons nationally advertised brands of any food are the safest purchases.

Apple Sauce Cake

One half cup shortening; one cup sugar; one egg; one and one half cups thick, cold apple sauce; four tablespoons hot water; one cup raisins or dates; one half cup nuts; two and one half cups flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon cinnamon; one teaspoon ground cloves one teaspoon nutmeg; one half teaspoon salt.

Blend the shortening and sugar, then add beaten egg. Add apple sauce and hot water and mix well, then add raisins and nuts, followed by the dry ingredients sifted together. Pour into a loaf pan, or a deep, square pan rubbed with shortening. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, F., for forty-five minutes to one hour.

Orange and Pineapple Marmalade

"Will you please give me a recipe for a combination orange and pineapple marmalade?"

This is the one from my notebook on preserves and canning: Three pounds sliced, peeled oranges, from which seeds have taken; three pounds grated pineapple (use canned or fresh); two lemons; three pounds granulated sugar.

Chop the peel of the oranges and lemons; add the pieces to the fruit and sugar, and let stand over night. Put into a large enameled saucepan and cook slowly to the jelly stage. Pour into glasses, and when cool seal with paraffin.

Prune Pie

I'm glad this request came, for I have a new recipe from California to pass along to you:

Two cups cooked prunes; one orange; one half cup brown sugar; one fourth teaspoon salt; two tablespoons cornstarch; one cup juice from the prunes; two tablespoons butter; a baked pastry ingue; four tablespoons granulated sugar for meringue.

Pit the prunes and cut in halves; peel the orange and dice the juicy pulp. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt; add prune liquid and bring to boiling, stirring constantly until thickened. Add the prunes, orange and butter, and continue cooking for ten minutes, stir occasionally. Pour into the baked pastry shell, cover with meringue and brown in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., fifteen minutes.

Grapefruit Peel

This question comes frequently: "How do you make crystalized grapefruit peel?"

And since the fruit as well as oranges are in use the year around in many homes, this recipe is welcome to many. Serve the candied peel with after dinner coffee, and on the candy dish, also to vary the candy box.

The outside of the peel must be thoroughly clean; drop into salted water (one to two tablespoons of salt to a quart of water) and let stand twenty-four hours. Drain, cover with cold water, bring to boiling point. Drain again, cover with fresh, cold water and repeat. Do this four times. Then boil gently until the skin is tender. Then cut with scissors into narrow strips, scrape inside lightly with a spoon; weigh, add equal weight of sugar, and for each cup of sugar one and one half cups water. Boil sugar and water together ten minutes, add peel, simmer until syrup is almost adsorbed (fifteen to twenty minutes). Turn peel often with a fork while it cooks. Let cool in the syrup, reheat a little, lift with a fork to a plate covered with granulated sugar. Roll in the sugar, spread the pieces on waxed paper to dry, about two hours. Then shut in a tight container or serve. It will keep two or three weeks.

MRS. GEORGE O. THURN.

Creamy Pimiento Ring

One package lemon gelatine; one and one half cups warm water; one half teaspoon salt; one half tablespoon vinegar; one half cup milk; one fourth teaspoon paprika; one teaspoon minced onion; one half cup mayonnaise; one half cup grated American cheese; one half cup pimiento, finely chopped.

Dissolve the gelatine in warm water; add salt and vinegar. Chill. Add milk, paprika, and onion to mayonnaise and beat with rotary egg beater to blend. When gelatine is slightly thickened beat in mayonnaise mixture. Then fold in cheese and pimiento. Pour into ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with crisp water cress or lettuce. Serves six.

Questions and Answers

Are molasses and maple syrup as sweet as sugar? Why is molasses recommended so highly?

To answer these questions the basic composition of these foods should be determined. White granulated sugar is one hundred per cent carbohydrate. Maple syrup is 71 per cent carbohydrate. Molasses consists of 2½ per cent proteins and 69 per cent carbohydrates, together with the minerals calcium, phosphorus and iron. Molasses is recommended not only for flavor but, also, for the value of its mineral content.

Do you have a recipe for an Italian sauce that may be used for fish or kidneys? I have heard of one made with chicken fat and would like the recipe.

Into an iron skillet or kettle place one-half cup of chicken fat, add three medium sized onions diced, one-third teaspoonful of curry powder, two teaspoonfuls of paprika, a few grains of cayenne, salt and pepper. Cook until the onions are soft. Add four tablespoons of flour and blend well. Add gradually one quart of meat stock. Simmer till all ingredients are blended. The color and flavor of this sauce are appetizing.

Why do many people think that pork is hard to digest?

Pork is more slowly digested than many other meats because of its high fat content, but experiments show pork to be as completely digestible as other meats. We always like to emphasize the fact that pork should be thoroughly cooked not only to make it more palatable but also to destroy the parasite trichina, which may be present but cannot be detected by inspection. This organism is supposed to be destroyed at 137 degrees Fahrenheit, but it also is necessary for the heat to penetrate every part of the meat.

Where should the monogram be placed on napkins and on the tablecloth?

You have a choice in placing the monogram on your napkins. It may be placed either in the lower right-hand corner on the right side of the napkin, in the center, or halfway between the lower right and left corners. The position in which the monogram is placed will determine the way the napkin must be folded when it is laundered. The monogram should be in plain view. For the tablecloth you also have a choice. Generally the monogram should not be placed where it is likely to be covered by a dish, or by any of the table appointments. The monogram may be placed between the cover of the host and the centerpiece or between two corners on the napkin. Two monograms may be used on each side of the centerpiece, one facing to the right and one to the left.

Baked Potato Surprise

For a delicious main dish serving treat the folks to Baked Potatoes with a new kind of stuffing.

5 medium sized potatoes
½ lb. link pork sausage
2 Tbsp. melted butter

Wash potatoes thoroughly. Remove centers, lengthwise of potato, with apple corer. Stuff cavity with link sausage. Rub skin with butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until tender. This will require approximately 1 hour.

...STARS ...KE PART IN ...RAKE RELAYS

...e Owens, Glenn Cunningham Attractions As Records Face Attack

DES MOINES, Ia., April 26—Three thousand track and field athletes, among them a potential record-breaker in every event but one, opened the twenty-sixth annual Drake Relays today.

Old-timers such as Maj. John L. Griffith, who founded the meet, and Coach Hank Schulte of Nebraska, who has attended 22 of them, were ready to argue there is not a more formidable list of track meet records in the country. Yet, with the exception of the shot put, each event had at least one entry credited with a better time, height or distance than the existing mark. Chances appeared bright for the hoisting of one or two world records as the stars swing into action for the annual games.

OWENS BRIGHTEST

Among the brightest of the individual stars on hand were Jesse Owens the Ohio State negro, and Glenn Cunningham, the world champion miler late of Kansas. Owens is counted on for record performances in the 10-yard dash and the broad jump.

Besides ironing out the old grudge with Glenn Dawson, the Oklahoma star who has twice beaten him, Cunningham hoped to cop the world's record of 3:00.6 for the three-quarter mile.

The Iowa quarter and half-mile relay team which set two world records at Lawrence, Kan., last Saturday; Jack Rand of San Diego, Calif., in the pole vault; Doc Murphy of Notre Dame and Don Philson of Drake, in the high jump, and Jimmy Owen of Iowa, Milton Holt of Fresno and Chink Vallender of Texas in the century were other luminaries looked to for possible record performances. Even the attendance marks appeared in danger as the university prepared to accomodate 20,000 spectators in the stadium.

The track was lightning-fast after a sprinkling rain yesterday.

ROSKY'S CLOUT ADVANCES TRIBE

CLEVELAND, April 26—Cleveland's tribe of Redskins strode majestically into first place in the American league today after clubbing the St. Louis Browns etc, a 7 to 6 defeat at League Park yesterday.

The Indians were trailing 6 to 1 in the seventh inning when Hal Rosky slugging first baseman, stepped to the platter and planted his first home run of the season over the right center field fence. Earl Averill scored ahead of him. The victory gave the Indians a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Browns and was the sixth out of seven starts for the tribe this season. The Boston Red Sox finally dropped a game to the New York Yankees yesterday and descended to second place.

Boys Are Listed

The boys are W. H. Nelson, Willis Bartholomew, Harold Binkley, Gale Hitchcock, Warren Beers, Don and John Goodchild, Harley Smith and John Gussman.

Seek Two-ply Record

The Red Birds seem to be going after a record for double-killings. . . . They now have 20 with Pat Ankenman starting half of them and taking part in several others. . . . The Birds protected their lead on the perch of the league by whipping Louisville in extra innings, 11-7, Thursday

"Rec" Ball Meeting

Recreation ball team managers should not forget the important meeting to be held the The Herald office at 8 o'clock Monday. All rules which will govern the league will be set up at that time as well as the schedule drawn. There are now six teams in the league and that many will start playing for the title Monday, May 6. A split season will again be in effect, according to a concensus of opinion of managers.

PARSHALL TO TAKE HORSES TO SOUTH

URBANA, April 26—With a new turf star, Lawrence Hanover, in the string, Dr. H. M. Parshall today announced that he would take his stable of 20 thoroughbreds to Lexington, Ky., within the next few days to prepare for the opening Grand Circuit races there June 15 and point for the Hambletonian Stake on August 15.

"Doc" Parshall won the Hambletonian, America's harness racing classic of the season with Lord Jim. This year he is centering his hope on Lawrence Hanover, 2:02, whom he said he regarded as "the most valuable trotting horse in the world." Parshall also is looking for another horse, Harper Hanover, to come through this year.

BENNY FREY HANDS PIRATES BLANKS

CINCINNATI, April 26—The Cincinnati Reds today had checked their descent in the National League by a 6 to 0 shutout victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tied with the Pirates for fourth place yesterday, the Reds, by the win, eased up into the third position in the flag race while the Pirates dropped all the way down to sixth position.

Benny Frey's pitching and Kampouris' hitting featured the Reds' attack. The Cincinnati squad today will open a three game series with the Chicago national leaguers.

ROOKIE TOUCHED FOR SINGLE HIT

NEW YORK, April 26—For seven and one-third innings over at Ebbets field yesterday, old man destiny rode on every ball sent winging its merry way plate-ward from the mound occupied by the Dodgers' young change-of-pace-artist, Johnny Babich.

Philadelphia's phutile Phils stepped up to the dusty Ebbets field pan one by one to wave senselessly at Johnny's offerings, and for the said seven and one-third frames sat right down again.

Then lo! A Philistine appeared in the person of Mike Haslin, a utility infielder, who sent a single bouncing over the greensward just out of reach of Linus Frey. It was the only hit of the game for the Phils, and holding any big-time outfit to only one hit, even the Phils, is no mean accomplishment for a youngster in his second year up. Meanwhile, the Dodgers mauled the ball freely to garner 12 hits, shading the Pennsylvania pushovers 6 to 0.

GOLF FACTS

ALEX MORRISON says:

If you had to keep yourself from falling 100 feet to the ground by holding onto a rope, where would you prefer to grasp the rope, at the very end or up toward the top?

The answer is obvious. Holding the rope at the end minimizes your chances of saving your life. The same applies to your hold on a golf club.

You have everything to lose by grasping the end of the shaft. When you keep your left little finger down at least two or three inches from the top of the grip you'll have a number of advantages. The shorter hold enables you to have better control over the club. Your left hand will function better and you'll find it much easier to get the necessary, wrist action.

The short hold means better shots in the long run.

DEPUTY'S KILLER TO DIE IN CHAIR

VAN WERT, April 26—Roy Smith an ex-convict, was sentenced to die Aug. 9 when three judges met here to determine his fate after he admitted shooting Deputy Sheriff Forrest Good. There were no defense witnesses, his counsel urging mercy because the killing was not premeditated.

OWENS BRIGHTEST

Among the brightest of the individual stars on hand were Jesse Owens the Ohio State negro, and Glenn Cunningham, the world champion miler late of Kansas. Owens is counted on for record performances in the 10-yard dash and the broad jump.

Besides ironing out the old grudge with Glenn Dawson, the Oklahoma star who has twice beaten him, Cunningham hoped to nip the world's record of 3:00.6 in the three-quarter mile.

The Iowa quarter and half-mile relay team which set two world records at Lawrence, Kan., last Saturday; Jack Rand of San Diego, Calif., in the pole vault; Vinc Murphy of Notre Dame and Linn Philson of Drake, in the high jump, and Jimmy Owen of Iowa, Milton Holt of Fresno and Chink Vallender of Texas in the century were other luminaries looked to for possible record performances.

Even the attendance marks appeared in danger as the university prepared to accomodate 20,000 spectators in the stadium.

The track was lightning-fast after a sprinkling rain yesterday.

ROSKY'S CLOUT ADVANCES TRIBE

CLEVELAND, April 26—Cleveland's tribe of Redskins strode majestically into first place in the American league today after clubbing the St. Louis Browns into a 7 to 6 defeat at League park yesterday.

The Indians were trailing 6 to 1 in the seventh inning when Hal Trosky slugging first baseman, stepped to the platter and planted his first home run of the season over the right center field fence. Earl Averill scored ahead of him. The victory gave the Indians a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Browns and was the sixth out of seven starts for the tribe this season. The Boston Red Sox finally dropped a game to the New York Yankees yesterday and descended to second place.

PARSHALL TO TAKE HORSES TO SOUTH

URBANA, April 26—With a new turf star, Lawrence Hanover, in the string, Dr. H. M. Parshall today announced that he would take his stable of 29 thoroughbreds to Lexington, Ky., within the next few days to prepare for the opening Grand Circuit races there June 15 and point for the Hambletonian Stake on August 15.

"Doc" Parshall won the Hambletonian, America's harness racing classic of the season with Lord Jim. This year he is centering his hope on Lawrence Hanover, 2:02, whom, he said, he regarded as "the most valuable trotting horse in the world." Parshall also is looking for another horse, Harper Hanover, to come through this year.

BENNY FREY HANDS PIRATES BLANKS

CINCINNATI, April 26—The Cincinnati Reds today had checked their descent in the National League by a 6 to 0 shutout victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tied with the Pirates for fourth place yesterday, the Reds by the win, eased up into the third position in the flag race while the Pirates dropped all the way down to sixth position.

Benny Frey's pitching and Kampouris' hitting featured the Reds' attack. The Cincinnati squad today will open a three game series with the Chicago national leaguers.

ROOKIE TOUCHED FOR SINGLE HIT

NEW YORK, April 26—For seven and one-third innings over at Ebbets field yesterday, old man destiny rode on every ball sent winging its merry way plate-ward from the mound occupied by the Dodgers' young change of-pace-artist, Johnny Babich.

Philadelphia's phutile Phils stepped up to the dusty Ebbets field pan one by one to wave senselessly at Johnny's offerings, and for the said seven and one-third frames—sat right down again.

Then lo! A Philistine appeared in the person of Mike Haslin, a utility infielder, who sent a single bouncing over the greensward just out of reach of Linus Frey. It was the only hit of the game for the Phils, and holding any big-time outfit to only one hit, even the Phils, is no mean accomplishment for a youngster in his second year up. Meanwhile, the Dodgers mauled the ball freely to garner 12 hits, shading the Pennsylvania pushovers 6 to 0.

GOLF FACTS

ALEX MORRISON says:

If you had to keep yourself from falling 100 feet to the ground by holding onto a rope, where would you prefer to grasp the rope, at the very end or up toward the top?

The answer is obvious. Holding the rope at the end minimizes your chances of saving your life. The same applies to your hold on a golf club.

You have everything to lose by grasping the end of the shaft. When you keep your left little finger down at least two or three inches from the top of the grip you'll have a number of advantages. The shorter hold enables you to have better control over the club. Your left hand will function better and you'll find it much easier to get the necessary wrist action.

The short hold means better shots in the long run.

DEPUTY'S KILLER TO DIE IN CHAIR

VAN WERT, April 26—Roy Smith, an ex-convict, was sentenced to die Aug. 9 when three judges met here to determine his fate after he admitted shooting Deputy Sheriff Forrest Good. There were no defense witnesses, his counsel urging mercy because the killing was not premeditated.

OLD INJURY FATAL

COLUMBUS, April 26—Injured four years ago in an auto wreck, Burt McIntosh, 62, died Thursday evening at his home here.

YOUTH FACES DEATH TRIAL; DOUBT SANITY

Blamed Parents for Failures in School; Signs Confession, Attorney Says

AUSTIN, Tex., April 26—Unless proven insane authorities today said Howard Pierson, 20-years-old, would be prosecuted "to the limit" as the confessed murderer of his parents, Justice William A. Pierson of the state supreme court, and Mrs. Pierson.

District Attorney James P. Hart said he planned to demand the electric chair for young Pierson, whom Dr. Joe Wooten, a friend of the Pierson family, described as a sufferer from dementia praecox.

Prosecutor Hart, after questioning the youth for hours, declared he had obtained a written statement from young Pierson describing the weird double murder executed on a lonely stretch of county road fifteen miles west of here. Contents of the statement were held secret.

Claims "Revenge"

The youth, who insisted he had killed his parents "for revenge," was said by Dr. Wooten to be the victim of hallucinations that his parents had discriminated against him. He had wanted to become "a great scientist," the physician said, but declared that his parents "wouldn't send me to school."

"He believed his parents favored a brother and sister," Dr. Wooten said. "He held an imaginary resentment which was based on his mistaken impression they had discriminated against him.

"His failures in school he blamed on his parents. He wanted to obtain his father's insurance money to resume his studies."

When shown the bodies of his parents in the morgue Pierson showed his first sign of emotion. He blurted:

"This is terrible."

When returned to his cell the young slayer reentered his spell of emotionless calm. His arm, which he shot himself to support the story of a robbery, hung in a sling.

POLICE SEIZING

"But this did no good. The children skated for miles on the streets to reach the roped-off sections.

"There were two accidents in two days this spring in which children on skates were caught on door knobs of passing automobiles, and seriously injured.

"We have tried radio, to appeal to the parents to keep their children off the streets, but it has had little effect.

"So, we decided on this course. The children will not get their skates back until their parents come in, and we can urge them in person to take better car of their sons and daughters."

The attitude of parents toward the new regulation has been varied. Some applaud it as a step toward safety; others have written letters "to the editor", condemning it as a "silly nuisance". The children, of course, unanimously oppose the move. But Commissioner Pickert insists that more of them will be living, 15 years hence, to tell about it if the regulation remains in force all summer.

OHIO SENATE IS SUMMONED

Vacation of Five Minutes March 28 to End Next Wednesday

COLUMBUS, April 26—The senate's "five-minute vacation," started March 28, neared an end today as Sen. Paul P. Yoder, Dayton, Democratic floor leader requested Lieut. Gov. Harold Mosier to call the 32 members back into session next Wednesday.

The session next week will be brief, however, for the senate intends to recess again at the close of the day's business for another "five minutes" to await action of the house on the appropriations measure, Yoder announced following a conference with senate leaders late yesterday.

The meeting next Wednesday will be for concurrence in changes in titles of bills passed by both houses and for disposition of other routine matters, he said.

This step was deemed advisable, according to Yoder, in order that the way might be cleared for action on important legislation as soon as the house acts on the appropriations measure.

The senate will return to stay until adjournment probably the week following, Yoder said, but only then on condition the appropriation bill is ready for senate action.

MOUSE HUNT HURTS 6

BORDEAUX—Mme. Falganelle was in the kitchen with her four children when a mouse ran across the floor and hid under the sink. She seized the glowing poker out of the fire, and prodded under the sink. There was a tremendous explosion, the house was wrecked, the outer wall collapsed and gravely injured Mme. Palame, aged 71, who was passing. Mme. Falganelle and her four children were also seriously injured. She had forgotten that her husband stored gunpowder for making cartridges under the sink.

Fighting Joe

At head of the SEC sits freckled, sandy-haired, dynamic Joe Kennedy, maving picture magnate, close friend of the President, and a likeable Irishman.

Kennedy is putting his whole soul into the job, and also a lot of his money. An early criticism of him was that he was once a pool operator. He has now dispelled criticism on that account. To avoid any appearance of stock manipulation, Kennedy locked all of his stocks in a safe deposit vault and refused to sell even when he knew certain holdings were in for heavy losses. As a result his values have depreciated by $150,000 during the nine months he has been in Washington.

One policy which has subjected Kennedy to some criticism has been his appointment of former Wall Street brokers to key positions on the SEC. He has argued, however, that he could not control stock markets with dirt farmers or school teachers, and has deliberately encouraged a lot of ex-bulls and bears to come to Washington. Among these, James A. Fayne formerly of Hornblower and Weeks, figured in some sensational testimony before the Senate Banking Committee, but has turned out to be the author of the reform program for the administration of Stock Exchanges. He also led the way in cracking down on the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

Public Exposures

One procedure being inaugurated by the Commission right now is that of exposing issues which its experts consider hazardous investments, even though they tell the truth and pass the requirements of the law.

This came to a head when Celotex was OK'd. It stated the truth, passed the Commission like a breeze. Then Professor William Douglas (Y.L. head of the protective committee, had a look at it. He raised a mighty howl.

"Stocks like this should not go out," he argued.

"But they have conformed to the law," some of his colleagues replied. "We are not concerned with the merit, only a statement of the truth."

"Yes," countered Douglas, "but you can hold hearings, and reveal the true organization of the company."

And this is what he did. Joe Kennedy favors a continuation of these exposures when the machinery can start functioning.

When it does, the SEC will have remedied its chief present defect, and should be one of the most efficient protectors of the public interest established by the New Deal.

A Doctor Knows!

And doctors use a liquid laxative

There's a very good reason why doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives! You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. It's the ideal family laxative because it's a family doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe and effective for family use.

If you are seeking something that will relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. Give regulated doses until Nature restores regularity.

At all drug stores

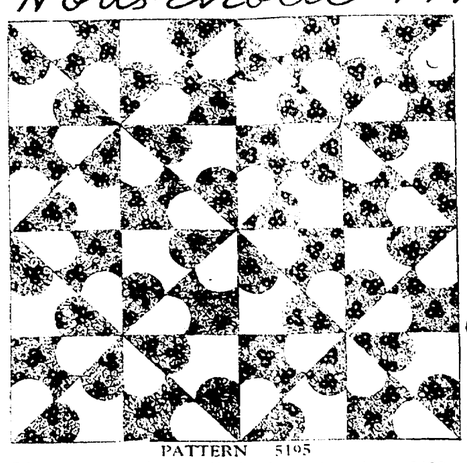
Two Pattern Pieces Make Old Time Block Dutch Windmill



PATTERN 5195

Of course you know that the Dutch love windmills—it's a symbol of the old country to them. When the early settlers came here, they perpetuated their windmills in their quilts. This lovely one, Dutch Windmill, has more than just a sentimental feature though. It's a two-piece, two-material quilt. And you'll find it very simple to make. It's lovely in white with a white and colored print.

In pattern 5195 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration of the finished block in actual size, showing contrasting fabrics; accurately drawn pattern pieces; an illustration of the entire quilt, and exact yardage requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

YOUTH FACES DEATH TRIAL; DOUBT SANITY

Blamed Parents for Failures in School; Signs Confession, Attorney Says

AUSTIN, Tex., April 26— Unless proven insane authorities today said Howard Pierson, 20-years-old, would be prosecuted "to the limit" as the confessed murderer of his parents, Justice William A. Pierson of the state supreme court, and Mrs. Pierson.

District Attorney James P. Hart said he planned to demand the electric chair for young Pierson, whom Dr. Joe Wooten, a friend of the Pierson family, described as a sufferer from dementia praecox.

Prosecutor Hart, after questioning the youth for hours, declared he had obtained a written statement from young Pierson describing the weird double murder executed on a lonely stretch of county road fifteen miles west of here. Contents of the statement were held secret.

Claims "Revenge"

The youth, who insisted he had killed his parents "for revenge," was said by Dr. Wooten to be the victim of hallucinations that his parents had discriminated against him. He had wanted to become 'a great scientist," the physician said, but declared that his parents "wouldn't send me to school."

"He believed his parents favored a brother and sister," Dr. Wooten said. "He held an imaginary resentment which was based on his mistaken impression they had discriminated against him.

"His failures in school he blamed on his parents. He wanted to obtain his father's insurance money to resume his studies."

When shown the bodies of his parents in the morgue Pierson showed his first sign of emotion. He blurted:

"This is terrible."

When returned to his cell the young slayer reentered his spell of emotionless calm. His arm, which he shot himself to support the story of a robbery, hung in a sling.

POLICE SEIZING

"But this did no good. The children skated for miles on the streets to reach the roped-off sections.

"There were two accidents in two days this spring in which children on skates were caught on door knobs of passing automobiles, and seriously injured.

"We have tried radio, to appeal to the parents to keep their children off the streets, but it has had little effect.

"So, we decided on this course. The children will not get their skates back until their parents come in, and we can urge them in person to take better car of their sons and daughters."

The attitude of parents toward the new regulation has been varied. Some applaud it as a step toward safety; others have written letters "to the editor", condemning it as a "silly nuisance". The children, of course, unanimously oppose the move. But Commissioner Pickert insists that more of them will be living, 15 years hence, to tell about it if the regulation remains in force all summer.

OHIO SENATE IS SUMMONED

Vacation of Five Minutes March 28 to End Next Wednesday

COLUMBUS, April 26— The senate's "five-minute vacation," started March 28, neared an end today as Sen. Paul P. Yoder, Dayton, Democratic floor leader requested Lieut. Gov. Harold Mosier to call the 32 members back into session next Wednesday.

The session next week will be brief, however, for the senate intends to recess again at the close of the day's business for another "five minutes" to await action of the house on the appropriations measure, Yoder announced following a conference with senate leaders late yesterday.

The meeting next Wednesday will be for concurrence in changes in titles of bills passed by both houses and for disposition of other routine matters, he said.

This step was deemed advisable, according to Yoder, in order that the way might be cleared for action on important legislation as soon as the house acts on the appropriations measure.

The senate will return to stay until adjournment probably the week following, Yoder said, but only then on condition the appropriation bill is ready for senate action.

OIL KILLS NEGRO

COLUMBUS, April 26—Charles Buchanan, 35, colored, was dead today of burns suffered when burning oil covered him at the Timken Roller Bearing Co. Buchanan was a laborer.

MOUSE HUNT HURTS 6

BORDEAUX—Mme. Falganelle was in the kitchen with her four children when a mouse ran across the floor and hid under the sink. She seized the glowing poker out of the fire, and prodded under the sink. There was a tremendous explosion, the house was wrecked, the outer wall collapsed and gravely injured Mme. Palame, aged 71, who was passing. Mme. Falganelle and her four children were also seriously injured. She had forgotten that her husband stored gunpowder for making cartridges under the sink.

Fighting Joe

At head of the SEC sits freckled, sandy-haired, dynamic Joe Kennedy, moving picture magnate, close friend of the President, and a likeable Irishman.

Kennedy is putting his whole soul into the job, and also a lot of his money. An early criticism of him was that he was once a pool operator. He has now dispelled criticism on that account. To avoid any appearance of stock manipulation, Kennedy locked all of his stocks in a safe deposit vault and refused to sell even when he knew certain holdings were in for heavy losses. As a result his values have depreciated by $150,000 during the nine months he has been in Washington.

One policy which has subjected Kennedy to some criticism has been his appointment of former Wall Street brokers to key positions on the SEC. He has argued, however, that he could not control stock markets with dirt farmers or school teachers, and has deliberately encouraged a lot of ex-bulls and bears to come to Washington. Among these, James A. Fayne, formerly of Hornblower and Weeks, figured in some sensational testimony before the Senate Banking Committee, but has turned out to be the author of the reform program for the administration of Stock Exchanges. He also led the way in cracking down on the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

Public Exposures

One procedure being inaugurated by the Commission right now is that of exposing issues which its experts consider hazardous investments, even though they tell the truth and pass the requirements of the law.

This came to a head when Celotex was OK'd. It stated the truth, passed the Commission like a breeze. Then Professor William Douglas of Yale, head of the protective committee, had a look at it. He raised a mighty howl.

"This issue should not go out," he argued.

"But they have conformed to the law," some of his colleagues replied. "We are not concerned with the merit, only a statement of the truth."

"Yes," countered Douglas, "but you can hold hearings, and reveal the true organization of the company."

And this is what he did. Joe Kennedy favors a continuation of these exposures when the machinery can start functioning.

When it does, the SEC will have remedied its chief present defect, and should be one of the most efficient protectors of the public interest established by the New Deal.

BROTHERS DENIES STATE'S CHARGES

SLAYER IS INSANE, ORDERED TO LIMA

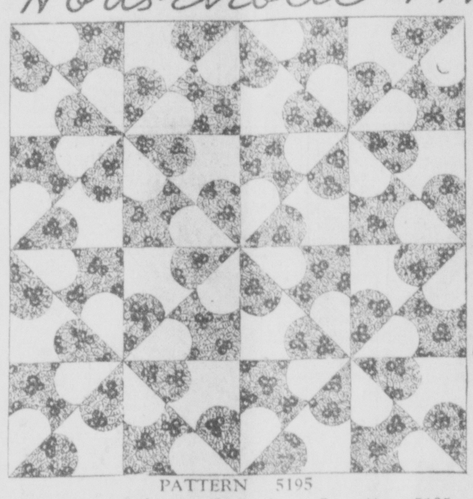
Two Pattern Pieces Make Old Time Block Dutch Windmill



PATTERN 5195

Of course you know that the Dutch love windmills—it's a symbol of the old country to them. When the early settlers came here, they perpetuated their windmills in their quilts. This lovely one, Dutch Windmill, has more than just a sentimental feature though. It's a two-piece, two-material quilt. And you'll find it very simple to make. It's lovely in white with a white and colored print.

In pattern 5195 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration of the finished block in actual size, showing contrasting fabrics; accurately drawn pattern pieces; an illustration of the entire quilt, and exact yardage requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

THE DOCTOR SLEEPS BESIDE HIS TELEPHONE!

A Doctor Knows!

And doctors use a liquid laxative

"Leave the rest to nature"

There's a very good reason why doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives! You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. It's the ideal family laxative because it's a family doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe and effective for family use.

If you are seeking something that will relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. Give regulated doses until Nature restores regularity.
